The Accountability Leadership Programme

You're getting inconsistent results, lack of accountability, poor communication, and ongoing conflicts within the team. Everyone seems to be running in different directions; you ignore that it exists for a while. Business and team performance start to suffer, you lose good people, you may even try to hire and fire your way out of the situation, something has to change.

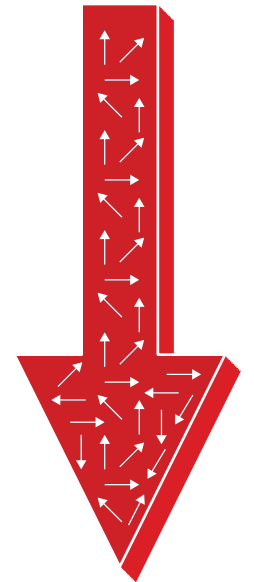

The Red Arrow Leadership Problem

Your stereotypical leadership or management team.

A group of managers all rowing in different directions, spending their time and energy focusing on what they think is relevant to them, their team or business unit, struggling to see the bigger picture, all fighting against one another.

Team members have no clear vision, values or goals aligned to the business growth strategy, mission, or purpose.

“Going Nowhere Fast”

The Stereotypical Answer to Your Leadership and Management Problem

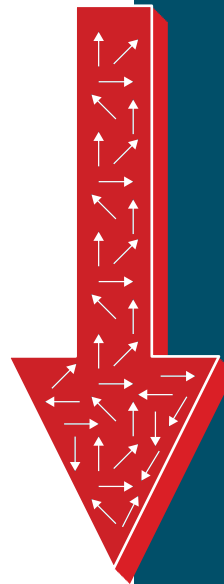

Red Arrow Leadership Team

Your stereotypical training scenario.

We send our management team away on a 4- or 5-days leadership course. They arrive back at work refreshed, energised and motivated to make a change, implement their new learnings, and create the organisation leaders of tomorrow.

After a few weeks or so, everyone goes back to business as usual; things start optimistic, but without the mutual team accountability of following through with the company's new vision, values, and goals, things start to fall apart. Everyone is off in their direction of what they think is relevant to them or their team/business unit.

"Going nowhere fast."

The primary asset of your company lies in the effectiveness, morale, well-being and productivity of the team or teams working towards a common set of goals and objectives.

Imagine competing against a team working together as one cohesive unit, trusting each other, aligned, and held fully accountable for their actions.

If you are in that team, you will win every time.

The Green Arrow Leadership Solution

To ensure you and your leadership and management team embed the results from our leadership and motivational intelligence-based programmes, we developed a revolutionary way to drive team cohesion and mutual accountability.

Green Arrow Leadership Team

We send your management team away on a 4- or 5-days leadership course, we incorporate the leadership accountability CURVE coaching process, where they create, develop, and build their own accountability programme based on your company and team values.

They arrive back to work refreshed, energised, and motivated to make the change, implement their new learnings, and create the organisation leaders of tomorrow, but this time they are all rowing in the same direction.

Each team member has clearly defined values, goals and action plans and the best part: each team member has individual access to the 12-month team goal setting plan that generates alignment and consistency with our live monthly accountability coaching sessions.

"Creating unstoppable momentum."

Team Cohesion and Performance

We are the only leadership development and executive team coaching company in the world that uses the most sophisticated yet easy to use interactive management tracking software available, so the team's performance is transparent and visible to all team members. You will be able to evidence the return on your investment and your people's development every step of the way.

All our team accelerator programmes include mapping and tracking software, so you know your progress every month. It makes for a powerful combination of working with an experienced results-focused Business Coach for up to 12 months, using trusted and proven methodologies that generate results time after time.
